The Village Gathering

Not just a place, but the coming together of people who are determined to see differently, who would let go of the belief in separation and embrace our unbroken connection to Spirit and to one another. Grounded in the teachings of A Course In Miracles and open to the exploration of all spiritual paths, we gather to join in God's Love, examine our beliefs, and take true responsibility for our choices and experiences. Our goals are peace, understanding, and compassion.

The Village Gathering was founded by Rosalie Bianco, a long-time student of The Course, who lovingly shares her insight with passion and humor. She is joined by her co-inspirator Rev. Paula Langguth Ryan who uses her experience and wisdom to host interesting conversations on Sunday nights with distinguished guests from around the world.

Sunday Night Alive!

On the first Sunday of each month, The Village Gathering presents a fun and enlightening program called Sunday Night Alive!, Alive features humorous sketches performed by the Gathering Players, helping us to examine our world, our lives and our hearts in a light hearted yet compelling way. Hosted by Rosalie Bianco, Sunday Night Alive brings to life the insights of some of today's amazing teachers, like Dr. Becky Bailey and Carol Howe. Energized with live music, and guest singers, Sunday Night Alive is a fun, once a month, spiritual evening out! Don't miss it!

October 7th, 6 pm

Season opening

Sunday Night Alive presents

THIS MONTH'S THOUGHTS ABOUT THINGS...

"In the company of one who is living Love, you can't help but spring into that Love." - Sri Sri Ravi Shankar

Hello and welcome to the October 2007 issue of Horizons Magazine. It's been a super busy last 30 days, with lots and lots of changes. We've now got a brand new website, thanks to beloved brother mine Jerry. Check it out at www.horizonsmagazine.com. And yes, this is the mysterious psychic brother whom I rediscovered in 2003 after 37 years apart. You'll find the whole story on the website under our Past Issues. Brother-Mine is updating the pages as fast as the energizer bunny, so check back often for what's new. We've got a bunch of cool links and quizzes planned for you. His own website is www.vibrationsmagazine.com. Stop in and email him a hello from his site and tell him you saw him here in Horizons!

The many changes that have come about the past month have been fueled by a new process I've been doing: the Invisible Counselors process. Last month, I emailed my group:

"In the book Think and Grow Rich (available free at www.sacred-texts.com/nth/tgr) Napoleon Hill wrote that over a long period of years he held an imaginary council meeting with "invisible counselors". He wrote "The procedure was this. Just before going to sleep at night, I would shut my eyes, and see, in my imagination, this group of men seated with me around my Council Table. Here I had not only an opportunity to sit among those whom I considered to be great, but I actually dominated the group, by serving as the Chairman."

He asked them questions and listened to their advice. When he opened his mind to the invisible counselors, it made him receptive to new thoughts and ideas from his subconscious mind.

I am writing to ask, who would YOUR Invisible Counselors be? Who, living or dead, real or fictional, do you admire and would welcome as a mentor? Why do you admire them, for what characteristic? Below here I have pasted the section on whom he chose and why:

"In these imaginary Council meetings I called on my Cabinet members for the knowledge I wished each to contribute, addressing myself to each member in audible words, as follows:--

Abraham: Fear is the feeling sensation that is present within you when you have both a desire and a belief that contradicts it. Fear is a response to the state of your vibration. You are a vibrational being, and every moment offering a signal.

RevJanet@SeraphimCenter.org
www.SeraphimCenter.org/reverend\_drjanet.htm

Your vibration could be called thought, it could be called memory, it could be called fantasy, it could be called imagination, it could be called Energy. In other words, your vibration could be called, "As I stand in my now, and I think about the present, or I think about the future, or I think about the past -- all of that is thought. Whatever it is I'm perceiving is causing me to offer a vibration, and that vibration is being answered or matched by All-That-Is.

So when I feel fear, what it always means is, I am offering a thought that you might call desire and a thought that you might call belief that are contradictory. The presence of fear always means the presence of resistance.

The presence of resistance always means not allowing the Energy of desire to flow through me--always, without exception. Same with confusion; same with vulnerability; same with anger; same with unworthiness; same with guilt.

All negative emotions mean the same thing. You just call them different things because they play out differently in your experience -- but they all mean the same thing.

The vibration of fear is usually a very strong vibration, which usually means there is the presence of a very strong desire within you. Often, when you feel fear, it is because you have a belief that contradicts basic elements that are natural to you. Your natural instinct, from your broadest Nonphysical perspective, is to know your power.

Fear is a vibration when you feel powerless. Your natural instinctual Nonphysical vibration is to know your worthiness, know your rightness, know your value. And the feeling of fear is always when you are contradicting that thought.

We would want you to say, "Quite a bit of the time I feel fearful or vulnerable or limited, and what that feeling means is: I'm in that moment holding a desire that contradicts my past thought, or my beliefs..." Remember that a belief is just a thought you keep thinking, it's just a habit of thought. It's just sort of the way you've always thought it, and so it is the way you are now thinking it.

And so, as you are feeling fear, all it means is, "I've got a desire that my belief is not agreeing with. Now, what thought feels better about this? I've got hold of this stick, where my desire is here, my belief is here. What thought feels better?" And as you just softly talk to yourself about that subject, reaching for the thought that feels better, what happens is you shift the Energy.

It's like the teeter-totter on the fulcrum, and it's clearly down here, and you would like it to be up here. And so, you reach for the thought that feels better, and you reach for the thought that feels better, and you reach for the thought that feels better...and it doesn't look like anything's

LIVING LIFE IN THE DIVINE FLOW

Steven Lane Taylor is the author of "Row, Row, Row Your Boat: A Guide for Living Life in the Divine Flow." For his talk and workshop schedule, or

How would you like every moment of every day to feel like one miracle happening after another? How would you like to accomplish your goals and realize your dreams without undue struggle or strain?

It's possible. It's called living life in the divine flow.

Whether you are consciously aware of it or not, there is a divine flow in your life that is continually guiding you toward the effortless fulfillment of your heart's desires. The trick is learning how to recognize and cooperate with that flow, instead of blocking or restricting your experience of it.

Fortunately, that's not a very difficult thing to learn how to do. In fact, there are two fundamental steps that you can take right now to begin living life in the divine flow.

Step one is to simply pay attention. The divine flow is continually guiding you toward the effortless fulfillment of your heart's desires . . . continually! But to take advantage of that guidance, you must be aware of the subtle ways that the flow is attempting to guide you.

Here are three ways that you receive guidance from the divine flow:

First, you are continually receiving direction from your own intuition. Your intuition is the most valuable and reliable source of guidance you have. It is the spirit of the divine within you. It is the spirit of the divine that is you! Your divine spirit always knows the next right step to take. And it is continually trying to tell you what that step is. So take the time to slow down, get quiet, and listen to that still, small voice. Honor it. Respect it. Follow it.

FENG SHUI AND FRONT DOORS

I know, I know, you expect me to tell you to get out the red paint, right? Red is the color associated with power, and is very popular in the Far East on doors that are facing the South. I would rather discuss the ways you can create a powerful entry without too much effort.

In feng shui, the front door is vitally important. It is the "mouth of chi". Chi is the life's breath of a house, its energy. It is from the front door that all good, positive energy and opportunity comes to us.

Many people never use their front door, choosing instead to enter their homes through the garage, or a side door. Because of this, front doors and the areas around them tend to get neglected. To encourage energy to flow well into your space, it is important that you begin by using the front door. I enjoy my garage door opener as much as the next person, but every morning I go out the front door to get my newspaper, and I go out in the afternoon to pick up my mail. Each time I reenter the house I try to stir up a bit of energy in the space. I may ring the doorbell, (yours should definitely be working!), or shake the wind chimes.

Begin revving up the energy here in small ways. Grab your broom. Install new lighting or at the very least a new bulb or two! Check to make sure your doorbell works.

Next, treat yourself to a wonderful new welcome mat; one that actually says 'welcome' is an excellent choice! I often suggest that my clients take 5 shiny pennies and place them face up underneath their welcome mat. This way anytime that someone crosses your threshold they will be bringing money energy into your house!

Make sure your door hardware is shiny and not rusted. A new door opener is an inexpensive way to create a whole new look! Look at the door itself. Does it open and close smoothly? Does it squeak and scrape the ground around it? It is a widely accepted belief in feng shui that if your front door does not open freely opportunities will not be able to come to you. If your doorknob sticks and needs to be jiggled to open it means you will have to work harder than normal to achieve your goals.

Often the entryway becomes a haphazard mess of shoes and jackets. We need to keep this energy center clear! Remove anything that DOESN'T belong. Throw out all of the broken objects that have taken refuge here, including the chipped planters or the rusted plant stands.

Your entry should be beautiful and should work to bring you in the energy you desire. If only a small amount of energy is getting in the front door there is only that small bit of energy to support the whole house, whereas if a lot of energy is getting in, there is definitely more potential for benefits to the whole house and the individuals who live there. Keep things open and clear and watch the good come to you!

GOOD ENOUGH TO BE TRUE

I have struggled through a long string of disappointing relationships," a seminar participant recounted. "I was engaged 3 times, never made it to the altar. One guy changed his mind. Another wanted an open marriage. Another died . . . My track record with men is dismal.

"Six months ago I met a guy I really like. Our connection is awesome—better than any I have ever had. I think we have all the elements of a great relationship, and so does he. But after so many letdowns, meltdowns, and breakdowns, I don't want to get my hopes up. Things are going so well, they seem too good to be true. What do I do now?"

Some people have experienced so much pain, confusion, frustration, and loss in relationships, that when a wonderful connection comes along, they question it and just wait for the other shoe to drop. But love, harmony, and safety in a partnership seem too good to be true only because they defy a familiar pattern to the contrary. The truth is that good relationships are good enough to be true. Through repeated disappointment and observation of poor role models you may have overdeveloped your propensity to endure misery. Now you need to develop your propensity to endure happiness. Then a good relationship will feel like the most natural experience in the world, and anything less will seem an anomaly.

Here are some tips on how to proceed when a relationship comes along that seems too good to be true:

1. Hold your old beliefs about relationships up to the light. Where did you get your ideas about relationships? As a child, did you observe role models of unhappy couples? Have you practiced a limiting belief for so long that it seems real when it is not? Do you have the power to make new and better choices for yourself? When you question the notion that great relationships are supposed to be elusive or hard, you will recognize that you have far more possibilities available to you than you realized.

2. Practice loving yourself so much that you become a love magnet. Love attracts love, and when you cultivate love from the inside out, the universe will deliver it from the outside in. Then, when someone perfect shows up, it will seem like the next easy, natural step.

3. Proceed as if you deserve the good that has come your way. Thank the universe for sending an answer to your prayer. Accept as much happiness as you can, as if you deserve it. Give yourself credit for your courage to persevere through all the frogs you kissed, which led you to the empowered place where you now stand. Keep letting the love in and giving it out.

4. Don't just sit around watching and waiting for something to go wrong—like discovering her photo in the yellow pages under "Escort Services"; or his secret wife and five kids showing up at your doorstep. Why hunt for skeletons? If one jumps out at you, deal with it. Until then, enjoy your partner and all he or she has to offer. Besides, you have more meat on your bones than a skeleton, so in any such confrontation you will prevail.

5. If you have an upset or notice a possible red flag, keep it in perspective. Don't overanalyze or create a drama that sinks the relationship before it gets out of the harbor. As often as I have seen people miss red flags, I have seen others turn minor incidents into excuses to bail. So what if he gets a call from an old girlfriend? If he tells you he is done with her, take him at his word. If you catch him in bed with her, you can kick his butt on the spot. Until then, give him the benefit of the doubt. "Never trouble 'til trouble troubles you."

6. Hold the relationship lightly. The tighter you squeeze or try to control, the less clearly you see, and the more you deny your relationship's natural unfolding. Say to yourself, "If this relationship is good and has substance, it will last and grow in a joyful, healthy way." Love is more about allowing than manipulating. Flow and trust will get you what you want far more effectively than worry and forcing.

7. Find and focus on role models of people in the kind of relationship you aspire to. If happy couples are in your field of experience, this means that at least part of you is a match to that kind of relationship. Now all you have to do is pay more attention to what makes a relationship work, and less attention to what undermines it, and you are well on your way.

A great relationship doesn't just happen to you; it is something you choose. More accurately, it is something you allow. No matter how long your relationships have been difficult or dysfunctional, they can be easier and work. Ease and success are far more natural than struggle, and love is far truer to your nature than loneliness. Don't accept misery as a fact of life; it has nothing to do with who you really are or what you truly deserve. Why live in a soap opera, when you can star in a great love story?

KEEPING YOUR MEMORY SHARP WITH HERBS

Have you been having trouble remembering names, dates, where you put your keys or why you walked into the room. You might associate lapses of memory as "Senior Moments" but that is not true; people as young as 20 experience moments of memory loss.

Stress is a key factor to memory lapses we don't eat right we don't sleep well there is only so much that can be done in one day and yet we keep adding more things to do to the day.

Ginkgo is the herb of choice when considering memory. Studies show this herb to work with dementia, Alzheimer's and other memory disorders they found the earlier you begin with Ginkgo the better the outcome will be. Ginkgo helps by improving overall circulation bringing needed blood, oxygen and nutrients to the brain, Ginkgo also supports neurotransmitters in voluntary and involuntary nerve transmissions and it provides potent antioxidants to protect and regenerate damaged nerve cells.

Clubmoss and Ginsengs contain Huperzine-A said to protect brain cells from injury and toxins it has been found to sharpen mental acuity, speech and learning potential. Ginseng lowers homocystine levels, which seems to be higher in people with memory conditions. Plus Ginseng helps the body to better cope with day to day stress and fatigue.

Menthol containing herbs like Peppermint, Spearmint, Rosemary and Basil help the brain hold onto acetylcholine, a neurotransmitter important for memory and learning. Many people who have Alzheimer's, dementia or other memory conditions develop neuritic plaque that causes a breakdown of nerve terminals lowering acetylcholine in the brain.

Gotu Kola improves memory; strengthening mental ability even in children with learning disabilities, it improves circulation to the brain plus it has a calming effect on the whole body.

Since ancient times Rosemary has been known as the herb of remembrance I wear an essential oil locket with Rosemary, Marjoram and Sage when I study or take tests it helps me to remember and it keeps me focused and alert. I also use an herbal formula containing equal parts of Peppermint, Rosemary, Clubmoss, Ginkgo, Sage, Gotu Kola, and Eluthero either as an extract or as a tincture when I need to be alert and focused. I have a child with ADD he would often use this when he was having trouble focusing.

Some other things that may help the memory besides herbs are exercising your mind read, do puzzles the mind needs stimulation and becomes dull if it's not used. Avoid fatty foods, fats cut off the needed glucose that supplies the brain with energy. Block fluoride and aluminum toxicity by cutting back on foods with additives, preservatives, antacids, deodorants, relish, tobacco and canned sodas. Get more Vitamin A, C, E, and B, folic acid, lysine, COQ 10, essential fatty acids, boron and lecithin from your foods, supplements or herbs to support, protect and nourish your brain.

ARRANGE YOUR PRIORITIES

Every time you wake up, ask yourself, "What good things am I going to do today?" Remember that when the sun goes down at sunset, it will take a part of your life with it.
 - Native American Proverb

One quick step toward spiritual happiness is to take some time to contemplate and clarify your priorities, and to compare them with where you are spending most of your time, efforts, and money. If most of your resources are going for things that you don't really care so much about, then you can begin to contemplate ways to change that percentage. Choose what areas are most important to you, and focus your attention primarily in those areas. Read about them, think about them, and talk about them - continually clarifying and empowering your interests and areas of greatest priority.

If your children are your greatest priority, then make sure your work load is not keeping you from spending an appropriate amount of time with them - even if that may mean choosing to live a simpler life. If success is your priority, then don't spend all your time with those who have no interest in achieving success, with people who don't believe in your potential, or in social circles that do not support and nourish your goals. If spirituality is your priority, then find a way to make time for spiritual retreats - whether personal retreats at home, or in group gatherings.

What are your priorities in life?

We've all had many experiences of having to rearrange our priorities. Just in the process of growing from a child into an adult, our interests and goals have changed many times.

WHY AURIC DETOX IS VITAL TO OUR HEALTH!

Barbara Brennan, PhD, is a world-renowned spiritual leader, healer, educator, and the best-selling author of Hands of Light, Light Emerging, and the inspirational Seeds of the Spirit series of poetic channelings. She is the founder of the Barbara Brennan School of Healing® and the Barbara Brennan School of Healing Europe...global healing institutes where students from around the world study her unique modality of healing through the human energy field. Please visit www.barbarabrennan.com.

However considerate - or not - we are towards our bodies, virtually everyone these days is aware of the damage caused by toxins.

Miraculously, but not surprisingly, the body has its own built-in detox abilities that it exercises through the digestive and other systems, including the urinary system, the blood, the lymphatic system and the skin.

The key organ in this regard is the liver which can take a terrible pounding but has an amazing resilience. That's not to say that its functioning doesn't get slowed down by the sheer volume of what it is asked to do. When that happens, the effect on our wellbeing is felt immediately. Of course, we already know most of this. There are books by the hundred on the subject.

What's missing in detox programs that focus on the physical is the subtle energy factor, a very important element. I also wonder how many people realize that our own negative thoughts and beliefs can often be just as toxic to the body as any chemical additive.

Why should the energetic/spiritual factor matter? Because it gives us the opportunity to be fully in tune with our bodies at every level. When we can truly appreciate the body as our own private sacred space in this lifetime, we add a whole new dimension to the way we look at health - and happiness.

Think of the body as a complete symphony with all its parts making up the various sounds of the orchestra. The heart sets the rhythm with its constant regular drumbeat that initiates and powers the resonant frequencies of all the cells and organs.

If you listen carefully to the pulsations of each organ you will notice any discordance that exists. This can take a bit of practice, best done in a meditative state, but it is quite palpable. You are tuning in to the rhythm of life. Rarely is our orchestra in complete harmony but by bringing our conscious awareness to each part of the body, we find the missing notes.

We can then return these parts to their natural resonant frequencies by resolving the issues that interfere with the flow of life and therefore stifle their functionality, leading to ill health. Each time we find a solution to a psychological situation by surrendering our limited perspective and bringing dualistic opposites together in wholeness, our entire energy field - or aura - shifts.

There is a flowing of the life force through the field, an erasing of the duality, a letting go of toxins, a cleansing of the body and field - in other words an energetic and physical detox.

All that is easier said than done, you might feel. And you'd be right. Letting go of the negative beliefs that we've put in place since childhood to protect us from life's injustices is invariably difficult and rarely something we can do alone. The support of an experienced healer/teacher who understands the complex relationship between health and belief systems is a real necessity.

There is no easy way to educate the ordinary person into understanding that, from the holistic perspective, the physical cannot remain healthy unless the emotional does too. There has to be a willingness on their part to look beyond the quick fix to the root cause.

For info on becoming a certified teacher of Louise Hay's philosophy, call Patricia Crane at (800) 969-4584 U.S. & Canada, or at (760) 728-8783 internationally.

Dear Louise, I'm 43 years old and have had acne since I was about 12. What might you suggest regarding core issues I might be storing that have contributed to this long-standing problem? I wish to release toxins, traumas, and old scripts associated with this condition! H.E., New York City

Dear H.E., After observing myself and so many other people for many, many years, I've come to the conclusion that food and thinking are the two things at the core of almost all of our issues—that is, the thoughts we choose to think and the foods we choose to eat. The first thing to look at is your diet. Sometimes the simplest changes can make a big difference in your health. I personally do not eat dairy, wheat, sugar, corn, soy, or caffeine. On the metaphysical level, anything to do with the skin relates to self-worth and your individuality. So, there's a part of you that feels that you're worthless and have no right to exist. All affirmations of self-worth and self-love are great for you. Affirm: I love and adore myself. I am worthy of the best in life. I love my face. I am beautiful and everybody loves me. I am worth loving. Bye, bye, acne—it is time for you to disappear. Life loves me.

Dear Louise, For most of my adult life (I'm 55 now), I've been drawn to live in California. I've come to feel and believe that my life would become more meaningful spiritually and I'd prosper, and that I'd also meet that special woman there. I did live in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and even briefly in San Diego, but I've come back to the East Coast to retire. Is this all in my head, or is it my destiny? Something within says, "Take the chance and live," meaning move back. What do you suggest? B.D., Atlanta, Georgia

Dear B.D., There's a branch of astrology that answers just this sort of question: Where are the best places in this country, or on the planet, for me to live? It's called AstroCartography, or Relocation Astrology. Go to Google.com and you'll find what you're looking for. Also, I'm sure that there are astrologers in Atlanta who could be of help to you. Good luck in your quest, and remember to always follow your heart. Affirm: I now attract to myself the answer I am looking for.

Dear Louise, I'm aware that fear is the dominant vibration in my life, but the more affirmations I focus on, the more fear I seem to generate, and I have frightening vision problems. I affirm: "I choose to see clearly with eyes of love," but have yet to achieve a place of safety and love within myself. I'm also working on releasing bulimia and osteoporosis. Is there a key that I'm missing? U.S., Montreal, Canada

Dear U.S, I heard a suggestion recently: Put a smile in your liver—meaning, keep yourself so full of smiling love that even your liver is smiling. There's a little girl within you that longs to be loved and comforted and accepted just as she is.

I suggest that you put your arms around yourself, with your left hand on your liver (on your ribcage, just below your right breast), and say tenderly and lovingly: I love you so much that even my liver is smiling. You cannot love and fear at the same time. Just love your liver for now. When your liver is healthy and happy, your whole body will sing with joy. This will soothe your inner child.

DÉJÀ VU

Spiritual
Cinema Review

In ETERNAL SUNSHINE OF THE SPOTLESS MIND, one of the most underappreciated films ever in Spiritual Cinema, the central theme emphasizes our ability and desire to retain our memories of loving another person.

If a relationship ended badly, or if the memories were just too painful would we and should we erase that memory entirely if we were given such an opportunity to do so? Just hit "delete" as we would a document on a computer. If we did so, and we met that person anew, would we fall in love yet again?

In essence, then, are our "soul mates" hardwired into our system so completely that any attempt to convince ourselves otherwise is the ultimate fool's errand?

Henry Jaglom's brilliant 1997 film DÉJÀ VU asks those kinds of questions and is THAT kind of love story. It challenges us to look at our belief systems in a very frank and some might feel challenging and even controversial way. At the core of the film, it holds up a mirror to all of us who are in relationship and shines a very powerful light on the very underpinnings of that relationship.

What happens if you meet the person of your dreams, the one you've always known was out there somewhere, and that person is with someone else? And, to add an Olympic degree of difficulty, so are you. DÉJÀ VU posits just that question, and weaves it into a brilliantly conceived and deeply spiritual love story.

To delve too much into the plot of the intricately-woven screenplay that Jaglom co-wrote with the luminescent star of the film, Victoria Foyt, would be unfair to those of you who might have missed this "hidden gem" of a film when it was theatrically released in the late 1990s.

I will not, therefore, get into a discussion of the storyline here, other than to say that the film pivots around a serendipitous meeting between a woman (Foyt) who is engaged to be married and a mysterious painter whom she meets.

The painter is played by the extraordinary Stephen Dillane whom many of you might remember as the husband of Nicole Kidman's Virginia Woolf in THE HOURS.

DÉJÀ VU is an adult film about adult issues that moves our heart and challenges our minds. The kind of film that you want to see and then enjoy a long dinner of discussion and reflection. The kind of film "they don't make anymore." A classic in Spiritual Cinema and a hidden gem indeed.

Members of The Spiritual Cinema Circle are receiving DÉJÀ VU as part of the October 2007 DVD collection which also includes three outstanding short films. For a limited time, new subscribers to The Circle can receive a free trial membership (nominal shipping fee) by visiting: www.spiritualcinemacircle.com or by calling: (800) 556-0129.

YOUR SOUL'S COMPASS: WHAT IS SPIRITUAL GUIDANCE

The following excerpt is taken from the book Your Soul's Compass: What Is Spiritual Guidance, by . It is published by Hay House (October 2007) and available at all bookstores or online at: www.hayhouse.com

CHAPTER ONE - OPENING THE CONVERSATION

It was the summer of 2004, on a surpassingly beautiful day in Barcelona, Spain. We were privileged to be attending the Parliament of the World's Religions, where I (Joan)—as a scientist interested in consciousness studies—had been invited to participate on a panel about prayer. Perhaps the most fascinating session we attended at the Parliament was a conversation about fundamentalism. The participants were Rabbi Michael Lerner, a political activist and the editor of Tikkun magazine (tikkun is a Hebrew word meaning "to heal and repair the world"; former nun and respected writer on world religions Karen Armstrong; and female Islamic scholar Kamah Kamaruzzaman.

Drawing on her seminal book The Battle for God, Armstrong discussed the recent rise of virulent forms of fundamentalism in virtually all world religions, characterizing it as a reaction to a soulless and technologically driven Western worldview. Lerner described modernity itself as a form of secular fundamentalism. The Islamic scholar Kamaruzzaman, who was the last to speak, passionately affirmed that the way to transcend these two competing yet interrelated fundamentalisms was for us to discover the common ground of our shared humanity.

An awareness of that common ground can emerge from a special kind of spiritual conversation that goes beyond external differences in belief. One of the Sages whom you're about to meet in these pages, Father Thomas Keating, convened an annual conference at St. Benedict's Monastery in Snowmass, Colorado, in 1984, inviting participants from a variety of religious traditions to converse in just such a special way. One of the basic tenets of the Snowmass Conference is that participants speak from their tradition—sharing their experiences of God or Ultimate Reality—but not for their tradition in terms of dogma. This kind of dialogue is called interspiritual, and it's a profound form of interfaith understanding and communication.

Interfaith conversations occur at two levels:

1. Externally, they focus metaphorically on the varieties of flowers in the garden of faith and cultivating an appreciation for—or at least a tolerance of—the differences among them.

2. Internally, they focus on a shared spirituality that transcends differences in belief. These internal, interspiritual conversations reveal the common ground out of which the diverse flowers grow and the sunlight, wind, and water that nourishes them all.

In his beautiful book The Mystic Heart, Brother Wayne Teasdale writes: The real religion of humankind can be said to be spirituality itself, because mystical spirituality is the origin of all the world religions. If this is so, and I believe it is, we might also say that interspirituality—the sharing of ultimate experiences across traditions—is the religion of the third millennium. Interspirituality is the foundation that can prepare the way for a planet-wide enlightened culture, and a continuing community among the religions that is substantial, vital, and creative.

The 15 spiritual leaders from the Snowmass Conference arrived at a consensus on the principles of authentic interreligious conversation—principles that you'll come to recognize as being interspiritual as you eavesdrop on some of the highlights of the discussions we had with the Sages in the pages that follow.

Father Thomas Keating outlined these guidelines in the book Speaking of Silence:

- 1) The world religions bear witness to the experience of the Ultimate Reality to which they give various names: Brahman, the Absolute, God, Allah, [the] Great Spirit, the Transcendent.
- 2) The Ultimate Reality surpasses any name or concept that can be given to It.

ANIMAL SPIRIT GUIDANCE

By June K. Brown Animal Spirit Guidance is my passion. My Church is my backyard, the beach, or the grocery store parking lot. Everywhere I look, I see the omens sent to me from The Great Spirit, guiding me daily on my quest to spiritual enlightenment. Thank you Grandmother Spider! Email June at moon-mother8@gmail.com h, the webs we weave! Just as the Spider weaves her web to catch the unsuspecting bug, humans weave webs as well. Everyday we create one thing or the other, through our words, actions and thoughts. We create webs, that we or others may get trapped in. We might get stuck in the sticky, outer edge of the web, like that unsuspecting bug. Our words, actions and thoughts could also place us in the center of the web, where we will have a great advantage in this world and be well. Our placement in the web is up to us. Negative words, actions and thoughts get us stuck, while the positive will take us to the center.

I have been coming across spiders everyday this past month. It's a little scary because, well, they just scare me.

Fortunately, I am only seeing one or two spiders a day. They seem to be in every corner I walk around and in every bush I walk by. They are there for a reason. They are sending me a very clear message: Hey, June! What the heck are you doing? You haven't been writing very much lately. Don't you have a business plan that needs revamping? An article that needs to be finished? And what's up with your husband? He needs to move on! He hates his job and really needs a career change. And your kids, they are kind of out of whack, you know? They are having a difficult time balancing homework, friends and chores. They don't have anytime to play and create. You better do something, girl! You guys are stuck, stuck, stuck!

Native Americans call Spider, Grandmother. In my bio, above, I give thanks to Grandmother Spider, as she is my Spirit Guide. When I am feeling stuck in the web of life, I know that I need to reconnect with Grandmother Spider and move myself from the sticky outer edge of that web to the center, where I can move freely. Grandmother Spider helps me write about Animal Spirit Guidance, so that I can send out a positive message to those who read it. She constantly reminds me that I am creating a web of knowledge and history with every word that I type. I must constantly be aware of what I say and do.

That concept is hard for me. Words pop out of my mouth and the next thing I know, my foot has been inserted to stop the flow! That is why writing is better for me; I can edit my message to the readers and keep it positive. And when I am having an off day, the awesome editor of this wonderful magazine tells me so, and I get the chance to re-write everything! (See what I just did? I may have just put Andrea in the center of her web, all because of a little compliment!)

Everything you do and say creates a web. It can be a web of love and joy, or a web of lies and deceit. It can be a web to help or hinder. Either way, you are the one that creates it. Be aware, or beware.

One of my favorite sayings is this:

Watch your thoughts; they become words.

Watch your words; they become actions.

Watch your actions; they become habits.

Watch your habits; they become character.

Watch your character; it becomes your destiny.

What type of web have you created lately?

HAPPINESS NOW

The following excerpts have been taken from the book Happiness Now by Robert Holden. It is published by Hay House, and available at all bookstores or online at: www.hayhouse.com.

MILKING THE "SACRED NOW"

The world has changed greatly in recent times in an effort to accommodate our desire for happiness now. Everything has speeded up. We live life fast—faster than ever. Fast technology, fast travel, fast careers, fast relationships, and fast results are all the rage in our "I want it now" world. Indeed, the world is fast becoming a vast convenience store where you can get everything in an instant—instant coffee, microwave foods, minute-meals, half-hour film developing, 24-hour banking, drive-thru funerals, quickie divorces, television shopping, home delivery of everything, and, of course, instant credit.

One way of looking at our "I want it now" world is to see it as a highly egotistical and selfish pursuit of happiness that is fueled by impatience and greed. Another way of seeing our "I want it now" world is that this clamor for happiness now reflects an instinctive wisdom and a great spiritual truth, which states that . . . everything—absolutely everything—is available to you "now."

There's a famous story from the Zen tradition that tells of an encounter between a young, eager student and a well-respected Zen master, noted especially for his perpetual grace and happiness:

"Master, I dream of everlasting happiness. What is the highest wisdom you can teach me?" asked the student.

The master smiled. He took his brush and wrote, as if for the first time: "Attention."

"Wonderful," said the student, "And what comes next after attention?"

The master smiled. He took his brush and wrote, as if for the first time: "Attention. Attention."

"Yes," nodded the student, utterly perplexed. "Anything more?"

The master smiled. He took his brush and wrote, as if for the first time: "Attention. Attention. Attention."

"Okay, so what does 'attention' mean?" asked the student, unable to see.

The master spoke: "Attention means attention."

"Is that all?" asked the student, obviously dispirited.

"Attention is all," said the master. "Without attention, happiness is nowhere; with attention, happiness is now here. Attention is freedom from all. Attention offers all."

ALLI KAUSAYPA CEREMONY in the Tradition of the Yachakkuma Imbaburaq (Shamans of Imbabura) Lineage of the Caras, an indigenous People of the Andes of Ecuador

The Ceremony for Good Fortune is an ancient ritual of the Yachak Shamans of Imbabura. Good Fortune is a Spirit, an Energy with which we interact. For most of us our interaction with the Spirit of Good Fortune fluctuates, that is, we are connected for a time, then disconnected. This pattern repeats itself over and over.

The Alli Kausaypa Ceremony was specifically created to reconnect us with the Spirit of Good Fortune. The Ceremony cleanses our Luminous Body, balances and reconfigures our energetic patterns, then reconnects with Samay Alli Kausaypa, the Spirit of Good Fortune.

Every authentic school of wisdom and spirituality teaches you that now is the most abundant moment of your life. The bibles of the world, be it the Old Testament or the New, the Koran or the Bhagavad Gita, the Dhammapada or the Tao Te Ching—indeed, any true spiritual text—all agree that now is an eternal treasure chest dripping with beautiful, everlasting gifts of peace, happiness, love, and joy freely available to all on a 24-hour "Don't pay now—don't pay later" basis.

Now is sacred! This is what the Zen master is trying to tell the eager young student in the story above. Indeed, talk to any spiritual teacher or guru worth their mantra, so to speak, and this person will tell you that now is always sacred. But why and how is now always sacred, you may ask? What if you've just been stood up on a date or you've just opened a bill or you've just chipped a tooth or your football team has lost again—how sacred is that?!

One approach to milking the sacred now is to place your attention on what is happening around you right at this minute and aim to appreciate, respect, and value it as much as you believe possible. You can do this right now. Before you read on, look around you and appreciate fully for a moment what your senses pick up. When you do so, you'll experience firsthand how pleasurable appreciation can be. Events sometimes seem to make this exercise hard, but willingness can overcome this.

happening. And then, all of a sudden, one more time, you reach for the thought that feels better, and there it goes! The fear is gone without even knowing it, just by reaching for the thought that feels better. There is so much reward in just feeling better in your "now". Because, so often, you're wanting to reach for the thought that feels better because, "Whoop-de-doo, this is big time good fun!" In other words, "I want to get there! I would like every effort to take me there. I would like every thought that I think, and every time I go to a workshop, and every time I make a little bit of effort, I would like it to take me there!" And it's irritating that it doesn't take you there, to that manifestation.

We want you to not get so hung up on the manifestation, and start taking pleasure in the incremental relief. Pleasure in the fact that this feels a little better. Pleasure in the fact that you can actually, with your own will power and your own determination, choose a thought that feels better.

IT IS UNNATURAL TO NOT FEEL GOOD

We offer an analogy, about the cork bobbing on the body of water. It's up here floating, floating, floating. And in our analogy this cork is bobbing in the place of Pure Positive Energy. When you take hold of the cork and hold it under the water, that's what negative emotion is. You're not allowing the natural quality of the cork, you're doing something that does not allow the cork to do what it usually would do. You're holding it in an unnatural place with your attention to this thought of something that you do not want.

But when you withdraw your attention from it, and you let go of the cork, it bobs right back up there. It is natural for you to be in this pure positive place. It is unnatural for you not to feel good. But what happens in your physical environment where you've been trained by other humans who didn't feel so good either, is that you've come to accept the way you feel as being the natural way that you feel.

A second form of guidance comes to you through the wisdom of others. The divine flow often speaks to you through the people who cross your path. It is through their wisdom—their intuitive guidance—that you are often led to your next right step. That doesn't mean that you have to accept and act on everything that everybody says to you. But you should at least be open and receptive to others, and willing to consider what they have to say.

A third way that the divine flow communicates with you is through signs, coincidences, and synchronicities. These occurrences are not mere chance or happenstance. They are meaningful. They are divinely designed to open doors for you and create opportunities for you in direct response to your desire. But you have to pay attention to those signs and synchronicities. And you have to act on them. You have to go through those doors and take advantage of those opportunities.

Which brings us to the second step for living life in the divine flow: You must let go of what you think you know. The divine flow often guides you to your good in a way that is far different—and far better—than anything you would ever come up with on your own. But to take advantage of that guidance, you must be careful not to hastily dismiss it or overrule it because "you know better."

That doesn't mean that you have to forget everything you have been taught, or ignore the conclusions you have drawn based upon your experience. It simply means that you must keep an open mind—and realize that there is always more to know than you currently know. As certain as you are about something, if you are willing to admit that there could still be something that you just haven't considered, you will leave an opening in your mind that is wide enough for divine direction to get through.

So there you have it. Let go of what you think you know. And pay attention to the flow. Stop trying to force things to go the way you think they should go, and be willing to move in a direction that is different from what you planned on or expected.

Do those two things, and you will begin to live a life that is dramatically more fulfilling, immensely more joyful, and, on top of it all, remarkably effortless!

INTUITIVE LIFE COACHING
Learn To Become Your Own Psychic

The mission of Mirror Image is to assist clients in forming a one-on-one relationship with the Divine Power and guide them in cultivating psychic aptitude. Life challenge is the vehicle the Divine Power uses to guide, teach, and heal all souls. Life challenge is the vehicle that cultivates psychic aptitude. Divination tools are utilized for two purposes: one, to foretell the future, two, for self-development. Emotional characteristics, behavioral patterns, and inner conflict determine present life conditions and play a monumental role in shaping one's future. Rather than utilizing psychic sensitivity and divination ability for foretelling a client's future, the focus of Mirror Image is self-development divination. The only surefire way to improve the present and influence destiny is to be your own psychic, to possess the ability to intuit self-understanding, self-empowerment, and self-transformation by blending life challenge with self-conducted divination. The image you see when gazing in a mirror is the passport to insight & foresight.

The College of Metaphysical Studies

The Educational Division of New Awareness Ministries, Int'l

Authorized to operate by the Commission for Independent Colleges and Universities, Florida Department of Education

Earn a Certification or Degree from the comfort of your own home

The College of Metaphysical Studies (CMS) has been a leader in metaphysical and spiritual education since 1986. Our primary purpose is to train prospective leaders for metaphysical, New Age, New Thought, Spiritualist and Neo-Pagan communities through Distant-Learning or On-campus Training. Those persons not planning to become practitioners, but who only wish to pursue a solid self-improvement program and acquire an excellent education in metaphysics and the spiritual sciences, are also encouraged to attend in a degree or non-degree status.

We are authorized to operate as a private, non-secular college and to issue Associate, Bachelor, Master and Doctorate Degrees in metaphysics, religion, spiritual awareness, spiritual and holistic healing, esoteric studies, parapsychology, and the entire allied metaphysical field. We also train and certify ministers, spiritual and holistic healers, teachers, pastoral counselors, mediums, intuitive practitioners, past-life regression facilitators and administrators.

SECRETS

Secrets of Spiritual Happiness

What this secret asks us to do is to put some effort into arranging our priorities consciously - looking to see what they are, putting them in some order of importance, and fixing up any minor priorities that are contradicting or interfering with other, more important priorities.

Taking time to contemplate and arrange your priorities will help you to move forward with a clear vision and intention. You won't have to keep falling into valleys of unhappiness, realizing that you haven't found what you truly want because all of your time and money went toward ambitions that did not fulfill your deepest needs.

Before you get swept away by society's expectations for you, or by your family's and friends' wishes for you, first take some time to really contemplate what in life brings you happiness. Delve into the depths of your spirit, and ask your soul what is your mission in life? Look back on your life, from childhood on. What do you most like to do? What gives you the greatest sense of meaning? What are you here to learn? What are you meant to give? What will bring you in tune with your most wonderful nature? What will give you the kind of steady contentment that will remain with you until - and perhaps even beyond - your last breath in this body?

For example, we can consider that many smaller enjoyments of life would be available if we forfeited certain other large expense items, including large houses, fancy cars, and even children. Raising children is certainly a long-term large expense of both time and money - this is an investment that is worthy of contemplation, especially in this time of world over-population.

If you want to have children, houses, or fancy cars, of course, that is absolutely fine. The problem arises when people move only through the grooves of wants and needs that have been set by others, without looking within themselves to find their true priorities and passions in life.

Even while living within the boundaries of common social acceptance in whatever culture you live, you can still contemplate what it is that you want to give to this world, and what you want to receive from this world. This is your life; live it! If your deepest joy comes from climbing mountains, by golly, go find a way to climb some mountains!

AURIC DETOX

This is happening in many countries. More and more people are realizing that the body, mind and emotion are completely inter-related. Every healing I have given has included all the levels of our being as well as our intentionality or purpose, spirituality, higher mind, higher will, relational issues with others as well as ourselves, and how we take care of our bodies.

Physical illness invariably relates to an unmet need that usually goes back to the very early years when the child was not sufficiently nurtured, loved or acknowledged. Once the child is taught neglect and self-rejection in this way, it repeats the habit throughout adulthood. Repeated emotional injury eventually becomes physical.

For example, a person with a pancreatic problem will have experienced a lack of sweetness in early life. Not knowing true sweetness, such a person will seek the sweetness elsewhere. So he deliberately takes in toxins. The world is full of sugar!

Since energy healing works directly on the pathways between our emotions and our physical bodies, it results in our learning to meet our true needs.

So what can we do by way of a simple self-help exercise to clear and recharge the energy field and therefore help with the detox process? You can start by bending and unbending the knees while standing feet apart with your back straight. As you bend the knees, stretch your arms out front, palms down, and breathe out. As you rise, and bring your arms close in to your body and breathe in.

You can add the visualization of colors to this exercise. Breathe them in from the earth through your feet and hands and from the air around you as you rise - and out again as you bend. Start with red, seeing the whole balloon of your aura fill with that color, then breathe it out. Do this several times before moving on to orange, yellow, green, light blue, violet/indigo and white, each color representing the major chakras.

For your magickal & spiritual needs

this is a great beginning but only a beginning. The process of detoxifying the aura and the body, bringing them both into blissful harmony, can be long and at times painful as we deal with the many emotional issues that diminish the life force. But the journey back to inner and outer health, to love, to living our passion, is a glorious one. It is, after all, the purpose of the soul.

YOUR SOUL'S COMPASS

3) The Ultimate Reality is the source (ground of being) of all existence.

4) Faith is opening, surrendering, and responding to the Ultimate Reality. This relationship precedes every belief system.

5) The potential for human wholeness—or in other frames of reference, liberation, self-transcendence, enlightenment, salvation, transforming union, moksha, nirvana, fana—is present in every human person.

6) The Ultimate Reality may be experienced not only through religious practices but also through nature, art, human relationships, and service to others.

7) The differences among belief systems should be presented as facts that distinguish them, not as points of superiority.

8) In the light of the globalization of life and culture now in process, the personal and social ethical principles proposed by the world religions in the past need to be rethought and re-expressed.

The fourth basic principle—that “faith is opening, surrendering, and responding to the Ultimate Reality” and the recognition that this essential “relationship precedes every belief system”—is a way of saying that guidance is available to all human beings.

A dinner conversation that we had with our friends Sara and Rachael spoke to this guiding function of Ultimate Reality in a very down-to-earth way. Recounting some of the startling synchronicities that had occurred during the past year that had deepened her spiritual journey, Rachael—who’s petite, vivacious, and seriously smart—laughed and told us, “God leaves bread crumbs to show us the way back home.” In other words, we can count on a beneficent force—like the prince’s parents in the Hymn of the Pearl from the Introduction—to help us find our way to becoming more skillful, loving human beings.

But if we can rely on spiritual guidance to lead us to a realization of our true identity, then how come the journey seems so difficult and the road so long and so often disheartening? As Dr. Ed Bastian, another one of our Sages, remarked with a laugh, “If we’re the Buddha, then how come we don’t know it?”

Perhaps the reason for our ignorance is that there’s a second variable in the equation of spiritual growth (as the fourth principle of the Snowmass Conference states): surrender to, and cooperation with, the force of guidance. Surrender and cooperation aren’t always easy. They entail letting go of our own agenda and waiting patiently for the path to open step-by-step.

Releasing ourselves into the unknown can be scary. Most of us would rather chart our own course if for no other reason than that it helps manage fear. But letting go of the steering wheel and trusting in a greater compassionate intelligence not only has the potential to be anxiety producing; it’s also paradoxical.

On the one hand, surrendering to guidance involves the bone-deep realization that we’re helpless—no matter how hard we try to control things, we’re ultimately not the sole author of our experience. On the other hand, in some mysterious way entirely beyond the capacity of words or rational thought to convey, we’re one with the author of all experience. The realization of that oneness is at the heart of the spiritual journey and our ability to trust that a wisdom greater than our own is helping us evolve.

The journey home to our true nature and to God-realization—which are one and the same thing—has three parts according to Father Thomas Keating:

1. First, as the journey begins, there’s a compelling experience of a Mysterious Other.

2. Second, as we progress along the way, there’s an effort to come into union with that Mysterious Other.

3. Third, at the point of realization, we understand that there never was an Other. Our own true Self—the answer to the question Who am I?—is Ultimate Reality.

If this sounds abstract, confusing, or heretical to you, you’re in good company. From the beginning of time, people have struggled to find words for what can’t be said but may only be realized in the laboratory of the heart. Our hope is to make this all as transparent and clear as we can, giving you the means for discerning your part in the ongoing symphony of life.

Both of us, your humble authors, as longtime students of the world’s great wisdom traditions, are somewhat familiar with various theories and stages of the spiritual journey. But there’s an enormous chasm between head knowledge—the rational concepts we have about things—and direct, embodied experience. The former is like a menu that describes what we could experience; the latter is the actual meal, which can only be appreciated when tasted. When rational thought gives way to direct experience, the events of daily life become a revelation and a mystical, mythical journey—whether (as you’ll read about in the next chapter) spiritual guidance comes dressed in a robe of glory or in the rags of stress and disappointment.

And now, through meditation, or through consciously reaching for the better feeling, you set higher standards. Until then it becomes consciously uncomfortable for you to dip into the lower Energies. You will never be at a place where you won't feel negative emotion. Nor would we ever want you to be at that place, because that would be like shooting Novocaine into your fingers so that you don't feel anything hot or sharp. You say, "Well, it sure is a lot better now that I can bang my hands on things. You know, I can shut my hands in car doors and it doesn't even bother me any more. I feel no pain." But it's not good for your fingers. Pretty soon you have flat, little flabby hands flapping around. You've destroyed your hands, even though it was painless.

And so, that's what that fear is. It's sort of an acquiescence. It's submission to a vibration that's not natural to who you really are. And you're awakening now to those higher standards.

Take mood checks and ask yourself, what is my mood? Well, I'm feeling fearful. And then ask yourself, well overall, do I have reason to fear? And as you reach for the more general statement, you recognize, you don't have anything to be fearful about.

We think what you're doing is sort of very specifically, channeling the worries of a larger mass consciousness. You are susceptible to Energy. And so, for example, if you were living in a retirement community where there were many people who were feeling vulnerable about their money, or feeling worried about what their future would provide, and you are sensitive to Energy, you could very well be picking up on the consensus of the group around you, even though it has nothing to do with who you are.

But you must have a little spattering of that within you, or you could not be finding harmony with that greater consensus. Every thought that has ever been thought exists. And then, by Law of Attraction, those thoughts coalesce, so that there are pockets of Thought Forms. And so, very often, just driving from city to city, if you are sensitive to vibration, you can feel different Energies in different cities. Well, what we are wanting you to do, is get so good at setting your own Tone, that it doesn't matter what the fluctuations of Energies are around you, you are always holding a steady course.

Perhaps your love is longing to express in the care of children - receiving their joy and creative growth in your own life, while offering your love and wisdom into the world to and through them. If so, then please do put your time, efforts, and money into bringing more blessed souls into this world.

But, perhaps you don't really have such a strong maternal or paternal instinct. You may find greater fulfillment in offering your resources in other directions, such as caretaking various aspects of society, or in creating artistic expressions that will touch people's minds, hearts, or souls.

Whatever is your deep inner calling, according to your individual nature, that is where the bulk of your thoughts, efforts, and resources can be best directed.

WHICH HEALER DO I CHOOSE?

Many healers - conventional and alternative - are available to help me. It's wondrous to live in a time of such variety in treatment methods. But which one do I consult for a physical problem? The naturopath, chiropractor, aura reader, medical intuitive, acupuncturist, faith healer, herbalist, Reiki master, Peruvian shaman, past-life regressionist, traditional physician, or (whew!) one of the many others?

The most important thing I can know about healing is that no one can jump into my experience and heal me until I am mentally/vibrationally ready to receive it. And once I'm in that state of being lined-up with what I desire, any healer, any doctor will be the right one.

How, then, do I become mentally/vibrationally receptive to healing? By thinking more about the health I want and less about the problem I have. And, in all areas of life, by thinking more about what I like and want and less about what I don't like and don't want. That is the only way to permanently change what shows up for me.

I can take a powerful healing treatment now by relaxing deeply, becoming still. The moment - the very moment - I quiet my mind in this way, the health I've sought begins to flow to me, unimpeded. I need no one as a catalyst, as nice as that may be.

When I slip my mind into neutral for a while, ceasing to analyze my problem or trying to push it away, I allow my cells, tissues, and organs to spring back into natural balance and harmony. I can envision myself bathed in white or golden light - or any mental picture that I find soothing - but it's not necessary. All I need do is get the feeling of being passive and receptive.

It is through my habits of thought that I developed physical symptoms, and it's through changing my habits of thought that I'll change my health. Spending some time each day in no-thought will serve me very well, too.

OCTOBER 2007

A stark wind blows the few remaining leaves from the trees. They drift down, driven by the cold wind like a madman seeking his final revenge...a revenge that no one can know; no one can little understand. Barren trees stand like rigid, silent testimony to the coming bleak winter. It is not long now. It is the beginning of the end...

of summer... The alarm rings, you wake up and the approaching cold... well... it went poof in the morning sun's rays, didn't it? After all, it's Florida! But in ancient times in northern Europe, it was coming of a bleak time and fall holidays became witnesses to the fear of the coming winter. The October time was the time to remember those who have passed over. In ancient Lithuania, it was believed that at death, the soul separates from the body and in the fall at the end of October and early November, it returned to its home to live out the winter with the living.

These special holidays were celebrated by those who fear that they too might pass during the cold winter. The fear was this: Gather your food at the harvest, celebrate those that have passed over and hope the same doesn't happen to you. Life was simple then and many didn't make it past winter.

The real secret to milking the sacred now is to place your attention not out in the world about you, but within yourself—your inner, unconditioned Self. In truth, the sacred now is an inner potential. It is eternal and abundant; and its geography is spiritual, not physical. In other words, the sacred now represents a permanent potential within you to experience love, freedom, and joy regardless of time, place, or circumstance.

The gift of happiness is wrapped in your heart, not the world. Thus, your happiness will never be mailed to you! And it can never get lost in the mail! In truth, your happiness has already been delivered, sitting in your inner mailbox—your heart—waiting to be opened. This is what the sacred now is really all about. In essence, then, you are the key to happiness. More than what happens to you, it is your perceptions, your thoughts, your beliefs, and your overall response that are essential; your Self, your original Self, is the real key. The real reason now is so naturally abundant is because when you allow yourself to be unrestrained by fear and uninhibited by worry, it is you who is so naturally, originally abundant. In truth, then . . .

Now has enough wisdom to last you forever, because within you, right now, there is all the wisdom you listen for in others.

Now has enough love to last you a lifetime, because within you, right now, there is the love you continually cry out for.

Now has enough peace to last you an eternity, because within you, right now, peace of mind is one thought away at most.

And now has enough joy to outlast the world, because within you, right now, the joy you chase is not in things—it is in you.

The problem with our "I want it now" society isn't that we want happiness now, but that we've lost sight of how to experience it now. In particular, we say, "I want it now," but we doubt and don't really believe that "it is here now." We've lost faith in now and have placed all of our faith in some imagined future. Similarly, we've lost faith in our Self and have placed all our attention on the world outside. Now it is the world, it seems, that must "make us happy"—and herein lies the source of all of our misery.

As long as you believe that it's the world that must make you happy, you leave yourself open to great disappointment and much sadness. Why? Because as long as you refuse to see your inner potential for happiness now, you will not see it in the world. How can a mirror change the way you look? Think about that, for the world is only a mirror. You will only see in the world what you're prepared to see in yourself—nothing more and nothing less.

Know, therefore, that the journey to true happiness and to happiness now is not a journey of physical distance or time; it is one of personal "self-recovery," where we remember and reconnect consciously to an inner potential for joy—a paradise lost—waiting to be found. One moment we look within and we see happiness nowhere; the next moment we look within and this time we see happiness now here. This is a revelation. This is enlightenment. This is joy!

The faster we chase the world and the future, the quicker we appear to overlook the possibility that happiness is here already. Every morning as we wake up, the alarm clock sings "now," and from that moment on we do not give now another thought as we desperately chase our future. But are you so sure that happiness isn't already here with you now? Have you really looked? I mean, really looked?

Milking the sacred now is excavation work. It's about rediscovering an inner potential for original joy—a potential that already exists but has been buried beneath a pile of fears, doubts, guilt, conditioning, and history. Think of this potential for original joy not as something to arrive at, but as something you bring with you wherever you go. Recultivating this potential is our task, and the task begins with the realization that . . . joy waits on welcome, not on time.

"Mr. Emerson, I desire to acquire from you the marvelous understanding of Nature which distinguished your life.

"Napoleon, I desire to acquire from you, by emulation, the marvelous ability you possessed to inspire men, and to arouse them to greater and more determined spirit of action.

"Mr. Paine...from you the freedom of thought and the courage and clarity with which to express convictions.

"Mr. Darwin... from you the marvelous patience, and ability to study cause and effect, without bias or prejudice.

"Mr. Lincoln... your keen sense of justice, untiring spirit of patience, sense of humor, the human understanding, and tolerance.

end of email excerpt

I received many responses back from the email, and now have some friends who are doing the process and sharing their results with me. One thing that many wrote back to me was "Where are the women on this list????" hahaha

WHOM WOULD I CHOOSE?

I considered whom I might chose as my Invisible Counselors. And why. This was my initial list: Alice Bailey as her work laid a foundation for the consciousness growth movement, Charles Leadbeater for his occult work regarding thoughtforms, Louise Hay author/publisher entrepreneur, Brother Lawrence practiced the presence of God until he became that presence, Joel Goldsmith was a healer and Christian mystic who taught in simple fashion about invisible supply, Abraham-Hicks has crystal clarity on how it all works, George Washington Carver was a creative genius thru meditating on his object, Paul Bragg knew a lot about health, nutrition and natural alternatives, Pablo Picasso for seeing things in a new way, JP Morgan was a business mogul who saw himself as a force for good and eschewed competition, the Dalai Lama for wisdom and peace in the face of opposition, Stephen Hawking for his knowledge of relativity and quantum mechanics.

WHO ARE MY ROLE MODELS?

I will have to research who might be good role models for the areas of my life I want to develop, so I'm still in the stage of deciding who my Invisible Counselors will all be.

WHAT ARE MY GOALS?

I thought "what are my goals?" In general my goals are, to have a fun and happy life, to live close to friends I enjoy, to live in a large new space, to feel guided in what I do each day, to feel I serve some purpose and do some good, to feel I'm using much of my potential and taking advantage of opportunities, to have compatible partners and to inspire each other in our goals, to be part of something that makes a difference, to find my niche.

INVISIBLE COUNSELORS FIRST COUNCIL

When I decided to do my first council, I first sat at the altar to meditate about 4am and afterward stumbled coming into my darkened room for the meeting, having gotten disoriented with no lights on. Taken as a metaphor, that message reminded me to have clear direction, make sure my footing is sound, and to persist and get up after I stumble.

The reason I called this meeting was to establish a cabinet of counselors, name them and their reason for inclusion, and establish a course of action to be followed to increase income.

As the meeting was beginning to start, I was surprised to see my brother Jerry walk into the room and take a seat at the table. I wondered what he was doing there and he said "The first thing you have to do is get your website going because it has the most potential for passive income." Then he walked out. Okay...

Most of this meeting consisted of me constructing in my mind what I wanted the conference room to look like. I had it be a room about 15x30, with golden paneled walls lined with books on shelves and a large rectangular conference table in the center with 12 high back swivel chairs around it.

There were no windows in this room, as it was a room for inner work to be done. There was a large, high chandelier of the room in the center above the table, and also ambient lighting above the bookshelves at the ceiling, giving an other-worldly glow. I pondered names as they came to me, who might I invite to the table? I did not get a lot of response but knew that would change as I got into the process.

Afternote: later that morning I opened Jerry's email containing his new proposal for the Horizons website re-design. I made a mental note to include him at future meetings.

THIS MONTH'S THOUGHTS ABOUT THINGS...

INVISIBLE COUNSELORS 2ND COUNCIL

Two days later, we met again. As the meeting was about to start, my (deceased) mom stepped in to the conference room to tell me to remove my gold bracelet and neckchain when I go in the ocean tomorrow, so it doesn't attract the barracuda. Then she stepped back out. She used to tell me that as a kid when we'd go to the Florida Keys. I'd forgotten about that. And she's right, I had a date to go in the ocean the next day.

THE MEETING TOOK ON A LIFE OF ITS OWN

The meeting took on a life of its own after that in almost a whirlwind that kept me frantically writing notes and wishing I was at the keyboard but not wanting to get up and move and break the flow of information. We outlined areas of life to be assessed for goals, including income, products, services, investments, health and fitness, organizational goals, jobs to create and work to delegate. We listed repairs and upgrades for office, home and yard, spiritual goals such as to deepen personal understanding, travel goals such as visiting all the stores that carry Horizons, and fun mountain retreats. We listed educational and conference goals, what classes I'd like to take, what new skills I'd like to acquire.

WHHAAAAAT JUST HAPPENED?!

A surprised 40 minutes later I was out of my "meeting" and sitting at the table reflecting on what just took place. What I end up with pages and pages of was not what I expected, nor did I expect it to come pouring out so fast I could barely keep up with it. It was not unlike the automatic writing that occurs during psychic mediumship sessions but I got the sense of it being dictated to me from those sitting at the table with me. I was surprised at the indepth suggestions I got for organizing my personal time, acquiring personnel, and for income sources I'd overlooked.

HOW DOES THIS HELP?

As I later typed my notes into the computer, I thought "Great, now I am feeling overwhelmed, like all I got was a list of more things to do when my time is limited as it is." I knew to morph that thought into a better one, which was "I know I have to balance play and work and know I do the work of many people by myself. I know I deserve the play time I take and I know that my play time is a key component in my attraction process."

INVISIBLE COUNSELORS 3RD COUNCIL

Three days later, we have the 3rd meeting. I asked myself, am I really ready to receive what this process is handing me? Am I ready for my life to change in the way I know it will change?

I thought, "Sure, the Universe will provide for me in abundance no matter what just because my thoughts stay relatively high for the most part. But to test out this Invisible Counselors process, I will choose specific things to 'want' in order to exercise what I know."

I do these exercises to carve those neural pathways, to go thru the mental muscle memory in my mind and become practiced at it so I can do it most effectively and with least effort and teach to others in a way they can do themselves.

WHY NOT MAKE TWICE AS MUCH MONEY?

As the third meeting begins, a loudspeaker from above booms "why not make twice as much money?" My first thought was "Because I don't want to limit it, even if it doubles every day". The voice boomed "Good answer." Great, even my imaginary friends are smart alecks.

HOW TO USE HORIZONS MAGAZINE TO CREATE YOUR OWN HORIZONS COMMUNITY GROUP

- Mark on your appointment book all of the events from the calendar you are interested in. That way, when the day comes and you're suddenly free, you know about it in time to go.

- Have friends over once a week to discuss articles and ideas. Use Horizons as a basis for creating spiritual community where you are. I especially enjoy discussing Alan Cohen's articles and the Abraham work.

- Find some out of town events and arrange a weekend jaunt with friends to attend new seminars, psychic fairs and discussion groups,

THIS MONTH'S THOUGHTS ABOUT THINGS...

"I want to look back on my life and be giddy with joy that I was the one who got to live it."

THEY KNOW THE NEXT RIGHT STEP

In this meeting, we discussed the status of the dozen new projects initiated after the last meeting 3 days earlier, and the next steps to be taken in each. They have a better memory than I do, which is cool - since we're all One, they can be the brain sometimes. And since I no longer have to worry about the next step, I can let them suggest it, and am no longer surprised when they do.

AN INVITATION FOR YOU TO JOIN ME

So I'm having a lot of success and a lot of fun using the Invisible Counselors process and would like to invite you to join me in it. Email me at Horizonsmagazine@aol.com and let me know who's at your council, living or dead, and why. Let me know what insights you get and how you're applying them.

ATTRACTING SATORI

After the last Invisible Counselors session, through an interesting series of synchronicities, I connected with Teri of Achieving Satori Seminars and we are going to work on some cruises and marketing projects and do some road trips together. It is through Teri that I met Steven Lane Taylor and read his Row, Row, Row Your Boat. One timely piece of advice he gives is about taking the next right step. Not fretting about what the 3rd step might be and the 4th step and so on, just taking the next right step. You know how you hear something a dozen times before it really sinks in how huge it really is in a particular moment? He was that a-ha moment for me.

I also synchronistically re-connected with my good pal Denise and she's going to help run the Horizons office with me. She's already helped my schedule ease up. In fact, I'm now scheduling readings again and am taking appointments for January 2008. So it you've been waiting to get on the schedule, thanks for your patience!

Enjoy our offering this month.
Life is good!

OUR MISSION STATEMENT

Established in 1992, Horizons Magazine is designed to inspire, educate and entertain those who are exploring the body/mind connection and seeking spiritual solutions to everyday life.

OUR PURPOSE IS:

To provide a forum to connect those who seek purpose in life, and use our combined power to encourage each other in our personal visions, promoting social transformation.

To establish in the minds of our readers the reality of the mind / body connection and the fact that we participate in creation of the reality we experience. We do this by our intentions, beliefs and expectations, by every thought we think and every word we speak.

To promote the reality that we survive in consciousness after the change called death. To comprehend this, we promote the practice of daily separation of consciousness from the body via meditation. Once we experience our existence beyond physical circumstances, the fear of death is removed. The less fear of death we have, the more we see the world from the higher perspective and the more we recognize how powerful we really are. This frees us to begin to live more fully, in every moment, now.

We're here to find and relate to others, and everyone who reads these words or writes a word in these pages seeks to be connected with those who seek likewise. So, if you read an article that touches your heart, or an ad that intrigues you, call and get together with the person listed; or just call and introduce yourself and discuss their offering with them. Connect with each other, come to know each other, exchange information. We believe that as we all work together, we are making the world a better place.

HOROSCOPES FOR OCTOBER 2007

Cancer: June 21 to July 22/23 "I Feel". With transiting Mars in Cancer aspecting your Sun sign, your ego will be working over time to get you busy and keep you working. You are driven by a passion for productivity. You will be driven to tidy up around the house, by cooking, cleaning and remodeling. Just avoid any overindulgence in sweets. For you this is the month to get ahead.

Leo: July 22/23 to August 23 "I Will". Opportunities, especially this month. Give those close to you a chance to share in the limelight with the added bonus of you being proud of their accomplishments. Harmonious relationships will be the key to your happiness all year long. So let the fun begin and you will reap the benefits of a loving relationship when you can put them first, at least once in a while. The time is now.

Virgo: August 23 to September 23 "I Analyze". This is a time of major transformations on every level of your life. Change is equal to a sort of death, not your own but a change in the way your life used to be. Just because things are different does not mean that somehow everything is ruined, that is not the case. When you let go of the control and the fear of not having control, you will be transformed.

Libra: September 23 to October 23 "I Balance". The reality to see life as it truly is is quite a gift in itself, but to live it fully is the joy and the reason for being. Remember to be diplomatic in your approach for making others understand your point of view. Your integrity self has many choices, what can you live with is the key. Nothing to hide keeps you out of trouble.

Scorpio: October 23 to November 22 "I Create". Any recent adventure or anything that has been swept under the carpet will come out in the open. Secrets will be revealed in unusual ways. When out on the information highway be observant of how people communicate with each other. Know that what we talk about we create. Do you like what you see?

Sagittarius: November 22 to December 21/22 "I Perceive". With transiting Jupiter on your sign you are being nudged to move forward in life. Through your soul seeking process, you know what is important to you and who you choose to spend it with. New friends you meet will inspire you with deeper compassion and stronger values than before.

Capricorn: December 21 to January 20 "I Use". Now more than ever it is important to follow your instincts. It may be that your patience has paid off. Caution and discernment are good qualities to aspire to as you greet the world. Having enough patience will allow you to take an honest look at the situation so you can't jump to conclusions. Compassion breeds understanding.

Aquarius: January 20 to February 18 "I Know". The month of October is always really powerful for you, now more than ever. You are being pushed to the highest aspects of your self and your life. Driven yes you are to learn and love as deep as you can. A steady pace of learning new things will fulfill your life for the future. Take one day at a time. Happiness is being centered in your self no matter what happens.

Pisces: February 18 to March 20 "I Believe". You are being guided to go after your hearts desire. Boundaries make good lessons to remember. If your heart is not into what you are doing then find something else to do. The key is to have the strength to walk your talk, even though people you love do not support your path. Think of the bigger picture.
